The only satisfactory alternative to Breast Milk for your Baby is

If you do not feed your Infant at the breast, you can only thoroughly perform your first duty of fully nourishing Baby by adopting Neave's Food. It is laid down by Doctors and all Authorities on Infant Dietary that the only true test of a Baby Food is a comparison with Mother's Milk. Judge then the Merits of Neave's Food by the following testimony from five eminent Doctors of International reputation (names given on application).

"I do not hesitate to endorse the evidence of my colleagues that Neave's Food is a valuable substitute for Mother's Milk."

"As regards the proportion of flesh-forming Albuminoids and the bone-forming Salts, there exists a perfect uniformity between Neave's Food and Mother's Milk."

"From the analytical comparison of Neave's Inant's Food with . . . Mother's Milk, it andoubtedly follows that when prepared for use according to the directions it is almost identically composed, and in especial contains an identical quantity of flesh-forming albuminates (proteids) and bone-forming salts as Mother's Milk."

"Your Neave's Food is suiting our youngster admirably, for which we are very thankful. . . .

composed, and in especial contains an identical quantity of flesh-forming allouminates (proteids) and bone-forming salts as Mother's Milk."

"Your Neave's Food is suiting our youngster admirably, for which we are very thankful... She was not doing well on cow's milk and water alone."

"I take every opportunity of recommending your Food as the best scientific preparation where breast feeding is contra indicated."

The preudent Mother will not be satisfied to be hopeful as to the results of her choice of her Baby's Food. She will want to be sure, Let her then remember that Neave's Food has for over 90 years been under continual and actual trial as a substitute for Mother's Milk, not only in Solentists' Laboratories, but in the homes of the people, and with the happiest results.

From Mothers as well as Medical Men as always coming onevineing proof of the sound and genuine goodness of Neave's Food.

Mrs.Boulton of 173. Northbrook St., Princes Avenue, Liverpool, writes, on 17th April, 1914: "Our little girl was awarded first prize out of a huge number of competitors. The examination was most rigidly carried out by four eminent physicians and they were unanimous in their decision as to her splendid physique and perfect state of health. One of the judges said she was beautifully perfect, which is a great tribute to the value of Neave's Food as a builder-up of healthy bables. She has never had a single day's illness and has cut her teeth without the slightest trouble.

The Committee or the Alliance Gas Company.

The Committee or the Alliance Gas Company was taking of the Council that, with an initial outlay of £300, there would be a saving of about £180 a year. He was satisfied that this would be a great advance, and would better the light of the district. The Gas Company was taking charge of the lighting; the Council did nothing but pay so much for each lamp. This saved considerable labour.

better the light of the district. The Gas Company was taking charge of the lighting; the Council did nothing but pay so much for each lamp. This saved considerable labour.

The Council adopted the Committee's report, subject to the clauses of the draft agreement being approved by the Gas Company.

The Roads Committee referred to the Council applications from the working gangers, the steam-roller driver and assistant storekeeper, and the Pembroke United Workers' Union for increases in their wages.

Mr. Forsythe said that it was now sought to have 30s. instead of 25s. a week. The existing wages had been agreed upon after interview with the Rathmines and the Blackrock Council. He thought it would not be wise to reconsider the question until the Council had given the other bodies an opportunity of consulting with Pembroke. The Committee had recognised that, on account of the war, probably the workmen could make out a good case; because 25s. a week was now rather low wages. But beyond that the Committee had been unable to go.

Mr. Beckett thought that the Council ought to authorise the Roads Committee to meet representatives of the other Councils.

Mr. Cassidy said that the times were hard, and that the other bodies were slow in coming to the point.

HOUSING PROBLEMS DISCUSSED. An adjourned meeting of the Dublin Municipal Council was held yesterday for the purpose of dealing with the business left undisposed of by the monthly meeting of the 4th inst.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman Laurence O'Neill) presided LATE ALDERMAN COTTON.

LATE ALDERMAN COTTON.

Mr. T. M. O'Beirne proposed a vote of condicience with the relatives of Alderman Cotton, M.P. It was a pathetic circumstance that on that day week the Council had co-opted him to the Aldermanship for the South Dock Ward. They all deplored the great loss the city had sustained in his death. An old representative of the South Dock Ward, he was an outstanding civic figure for many years. Through the death of Alderman Cotton they had lost a personality of great distinction.

Alderman J. J. Kelly, in seconding, said that on that day week he had the honour of proposing the co-option of Alderman Cotton for the Aldermanship of the South Dock Ward, and he was glad that the Council had practically unanimously passed the resolution.

Mr. J. S. Kelly supported the motion, and it was passed unanimously.

THE METAL BRIDGE.

A deputation from the residents of the North City Ward, consisting of Messrs. Alexander Nesbitt, John O'Sullivan, — Geary, A. J. Geary, Edward Gordov, P. O'Neill, M. Humphreys, D. O'Grady, and Sir John Irwin, waited on the Council to ask that the bridge at Wellington quay be made free of toll.

Sir John Irwin said the lease had just run out and the bridge would revert to the Corporation. They asked that the lease be not renewed, and that the Corporation should take possession of it. He understood that the lessee expected some compensation, but he (Sir John) didn't see to what compensation he was entitled, as no money had been expended upon it for rearre-

The Lord Mayor said the Estates and Finance On the motion of Mr. Gately a resolution was passed directing the Town Clerk to prepare a statement giving full particulars as to the Council's rights in connection with the bridge, the nature and period of any other interests concerned, and the title by which the present occaniers of the bridge continue to levy a toll on those citizens who have occasion to use it.

That was a monstrous state of affairs. It was time the collection was put on a proper basis.

They were paying collectors for not collecting.

Dr. Sherlock said that the Corporation had been told in the most positive manner that it had no legal power to take over from the rate collectors the collection of the electricity accounts. The percentage of small debts was extraordinarily low.

Mr. Beattic said the present system of collection of electricity accounts was not satisfactory, and should be amended.

The breviate for the quarter ending December 31st, 1916, was adopted.

Shaw's creations, Margaret touches a finer chord, and gives the play great depth of interest. For a sincere and well-conceived interpretation of that part warm praise is due to Miss Elizabeth Young, who indicated its fine shades of emotion with skill.

R. Earle Grey in the character of Peter showed that he has turned his recent fuller experience to great advantage, and his acting was confident and finished, while it had a note of sincerity which greatly commended it. The other characters were creditable studies by Mr. Donald O'Kelly as the cabman, Mr. Henry O'Donevan as the disapproving valet, Mr. Charles R. Stone as the kerb-haunter, Miss Dorothy Casey in the part of Lady Hurley, Miss Murici Murro as Peter's fancée, and Miss Fiorrie Amery as Little Peter.

Slat, 1916, was adopted.
On the motion of Alderman Farrell, seconded by Mr. Vaughan, a resolution was passed making the salary of the Catholic Chaplain of Crocksling Sanatorium £100 a year and the salary of the Protestant Chaplain £40 a year, run from the 25th August last.
The business on the agenda was discharged.

GAIETY THEATRE.

"PASSERS-BY."

A play of far more body than Gaiety audiences have been favoured with for some time past is to be witnessed this week in "Passers By." Its performance fast evening by Mr. Augustus Keogh's company did not attract an audience of anything like the numbers it warranted. There was a tendency, one suspects, to dismiss this week's dramatic fare as the work of "only amateurs; but this is distinctly an occasion when the local cast should receive honour in their own city. They have got hold of a good play, which grips attention farmly, and they give it an interpretation which is well worth seeing, even by those who have no inflated ideas of local attainments in dramatic art. A Mr. Peter Waterton is the central figure in the play, and in a curious mood makes guests of passersby, not only as objects of study for a momentary whim, but in a vein of sympathy which expands the best of their natures. A tramp and a cabman in turn enjoy his hospitality, and then from out the fog is brought Margaret Summers, who is recognised as an old lover of whom sight had been lost. While the cabman and the tramp introduce humour and philosophy somewhat after the style of Bernard Shaws creations, Margaret touches a finer chord, and gives the play great depth of interest. For a sincere and well-conceived interpretation of that " PASSERS-BY."

THEATRE ROYAL.

At the Theatre Royal Hippodrome last night Mr. Walter Bentley presented a revue, entitled "Odds On," written and composed by Mr. Harry Dent. The performance is built on conventional lines, but it is staged and dressed in a more than usually claborate style. The dialogue is amusing, and is full of jokes, new and old, while there are many vocal numbers that contribute not a little to the pleasure of the audience. Amongst the latter may be specially mentioned the "Butterfly" duet and the "Molly" quartette. Miss Evelyn Gordon and Mr. Bay Russell are prominent amongst the vocalists, and Miss Gwen Clifford and Mr. Jack Shires lead in the comety work. Hyde and Cody, as waiters, are worth their room, and the other notable performers include Miss Elsie ltartlett, Miss Sylvia Hind, Mr. Edward Eccles, Mr. Harry Ward, At the Theatre Royal Hippodrome last night Mr.

scheme should follow on the lines of the garden seems asked to provide for 500 houses, public baths, playgrounds and everything calculated to make the place beautiful. One hundred five-roomed houses were proposed at rents of 10s. per week. As against houses of that high rent there would be a larger number of houses built for which the rent proposed was 3s. per week, in order to accommodate the poorer classes.

Mr. Beattie—Will there be a loss on the scheme?

Alderman Kelly—There would be no loss if we were working in normal times. The price of materials had so increased they were not in a position to give the actual figures until they found what rate of interest the Government intended lending the money at. As to the McCaffrey cetate, it was proposed to build 205 artisans' houses at rents from 7s. to 8s. per week. In regard to 8t. James' Walk, they were prepared to provide a number of cottages at 4s. to 4s. 6d. per week the convertable to acceptable items to an all-round interesting programme.

A new crisis in Spain has resulted in the resignation of the short-lived Ministry of Señor Garcia Prieto, which succeeded the Liberal Ministry of Count Romanones and has now been succeeded in turn by a Conservative Ministry under Señor Dato. Whether this will be more fortunate than its predecessor remains to be seen. All the causes which operated to bring about the fall of Count Romanones still exist, and the late Ministry has left them as a legacy to its successor, together with the new total countries.

If that frame of mind can be induced at the Convention, and if goodwill is substituted for the menace of mijority votes, we may find ourselves at the beginning of a new and bright era in Irish history. We do not pretend to believe that this conversion—this condition precedent to the success of the Convention—can be attained, but until we are compelled to abandon all hope we shall not admit that it is impossible. The most cheerful word about the Convention that was spoken yesterday in the House of Commons came from Sir Edward Carson, the leader of the Irish party which is supposed to be least amenable to conversion. Recalling the circums stances of Major Redmond's noble death, we may hope, with Sir Edward Carson, to see in our own time "a solution of the Irish party to see in our own time "a solution of the England and the success of the Convention of the procession of the Irish party which is supposed to be least amenable to conversion. problem which was primarily responsible for its own downfall. Count Romanones, it will be remembered, resigned after an unsatisfactory reply had been received from Germany to a Note demanding satisfaction for a peculiarly insulting attack on Spanish shipping. His resignation was a proof of his consciousness that active measures against Germany were rendered virtually impossible by the internal situasioners to depart in certain circumstances than it was. It will, he says, be for the city to make out a good case before the Deputy-Commissioner, who will inquire regarding its position under the redistributon scheme to-morrow. The population of Chester at the last census was 39,828. It may be noted here that, when the Redis-tribution Bill of 1885 was before Parliascheme were discussed by the House of Commons, the conduct of it being in charge of the late Sir Charles Dilke, who was then President of the Local Governnent Board. General Pershing, with his Chief of Staff and several other American officers, paid a visit to the House of Commons today, being introduced by Mr. Shirley Benn. The party were provided with seats Mr. Balfour, on the occasion of his visit to Buckingham Palace on Sunday, was engaged for exactly an hour with His Majesty. Yester-tone of the House reminded him very much of the American House of Representatives. The British Government has issued a statement in reply to the Russian Note Coregarding the war aims of the Allies. It might, therefore, be regarded as a symbol of Greek achievement. Now it has gone to the Allies owing to the false dealing of a pro-German King whose efforts on behalf of Germany have led to nothing but successive humiliations for his people. Its occupation, however, is a sign of hope for the Allies, since it must mean that it has at last been decided that real pressure is to be applied to King Constantine and his unrepresentative Government. QUESTIONS FOR THE CONVENTION At a largely attended special meeting of the Executive Council of the City of Dublin Unionist Association held on Friday, the 8th June, 1917, to consider the proposed Convention, the following resolution was passed:—"That this Association approves of the action of the Unionist Alliance in agreeing to send delegates to the proposed Convention as to the government of Ireland, and is of opinion that the first questions which must of necessity be discussed are whether drastic changes in the government of Ireland would be likely to produce any beneficial result, and whether, under present circumstances, any measure of Home Rule can with any degree of safety to the Empire be passed, having regard to the fact that, as the result of an election the extreme revolutionaries would have the management of the country."

The Petrol Committee have given further consideration to the question of the issue of special permits for motor cars to be let for hire for certain specified purposes, in accordance with Section (c) of Regulations 8GG of the Defence of the Realm Regulations, and they have agreed, after consultation with the Motor Hire Section of the Motor Trade Association, to issue such permits, subject to the following conditions:—

(1) That the hired motor car is used only for business purposes or public duties, or for the conveyance of passengers to and from a relway station or port.

(2) That applications for permits for Ireland shall be made upon a prescribed form, to be obtained from the Motor Trade Association (Irish Division), 12 College Green, Dublin.

(3) That such application forms shall be critified by a responsible official appointed by the Association, and forwarded to the Petrol Control Committee for the issue of a permit and a motor spirit licence.

(4) That permits will be issued only for motor cars actually in use, and the number will not exceed the number of hackney carriage licences held prior to the Ist August, 1916.

(5) That the allowance of motor spirit shall be according to the following scale:

30 gallons per car per month (where the owner has one car only).

25 gallons per car per month (where the owner has two cars only).

20 gallons per car per month (where the owner has two cars only).

Another interesting point about it is the offer to revise any agreements with the Allies if they do not conform to Russian ideals. The document should do good service in Russia, particularly in the circles now in power.

The occupation of Janina by the Italians should have a marked effect on the minds of the Greek people, for this city was won from the Turks in the Balkan War, and might, therefore, be regarded as a symbol of Greek achievement. As announced in our later editions of yesterday Inspector Mills, of the Dublin Metropolitan Police Force, died shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning at Jervis street Hospital. irspector was, with some constables, taking Count Plunkett and a man named Burgoss to the police station for having attempted to address a proclaimed meeting in Beresford place on Sunday evening. The object of the meeting, which had been arranged beforehand, was to protest against the detention and treatment of rebellion prisoners in Lewes Jail. The military authorities issued a proclamation prohibiting the meeting, but in defiance of the proclamation an effort was made to hold it, and, as Count Plunkett and Burgess attempted to address about 2,000 persons assembled at the appointed time and place, they were arrested. It was while they were on the way to Store street Police Station that Inspector Mills received the fatal blow. In the hospital he was operated upon, but it is understood he never recovered consciousness. irspector was, with some constables, taking

FUTURE OF POLAND. The Press Bureau issues the following:-The following is the text of His Majesty's vernment's reply to the Russian Note regard-ng the Allied war aims :-On May 3rd His Majesty's Government re-ceived, through the Russian Charge d'Affaires, a Note from the Russian Government declara-tory of the war policy. In the Proclamation to the Russian people enclosed in the Note it is said that free Kussia does not purpose to dominate other peoples or to take from them their national patrimony, or forcibly to occupy foreign territory. In this sentiment the Bri-tish Government heartily concur. They did not enter upon this war as a war of conquest, and they are not continuing it for any such object. they are not continuing it for any such object.

Their purpose at the outset was to defend the existence of their country and to enforce respect for international engagements.

To those objects has now been added that of Beyond everything we must seek for such a settlement as will secure the happiness and contentment of the peoples, and take away all legitimate causes of future war. The British Government heartily join the Russian Allies in their acceptance and approval of the principles laid down by President Wilson in his historic message to the American Congress. These are the aims for which the British peoples are fighting. These are the principles by which their war policy is and will be gained.

The British Government believe that, broadly speaking, the agreements which they have from time to time made with their Allies are conformable to these standards. But if the Russian Government so desire, they are quite ready, invernment so desire, they are quite ith their Allies, to examine, and, if revise these agreements.

The assistance already given with destroyers is an earnest of what may be expected from the American Navy, and is greatly appreciated by the British Admirally. The organisation and administration of the Navy Department afforded most reassuring proof of the state of preparedness of the American Navy. With regard to the submarine menace, the best brains of America are engaged in the production of more effective methods for its defeat. KILLED BY SHELL EXPLOSION. KILLED BY SHELL EXPLOSION.

The commanding officer of the Irish Division has arrived in London, and has had an interview with Mrs. William Redmond and Mr. John Redmond. It appears from his statement that Major Redmond had a position in connection with the Staff of the Irish Division, which, in the ordinary course, would have kept him at headquarters, behind the fighting line, during the advance. He, however, urgently insisted that he should be allowed to go into action with his regiment, and finally the General reluctantly consented. Major Redmond was leading his men in the attack on Wytschaete Wood when a shell exploided in his immediate vicinity, and seriously wounded him. He was picked up shortly afterwards by an Ulster Division ambulance, and was taken to the Ulster Division field hospital.

SIR EDWARD CARSON.

Sir EDWARD CARSON said that he hoped the House would allow him to add his tribute to the memory of his much-lamented, life-long opponent, Major Redmond. He had known him for more years than he could calculate. He had disagreed with him on every subject in politics, but he was glad to think that he had never had, in the course of those long years, one bitter word with him, either in public or in private. He had always respected him and knew of his sincerity and the earnestness with which he prosecuted a cause in which he believed. He (Sir Edward) had just come back from Belfast, where he had to preside at a conference of 500 delegates from Ulster. He advised them strongly to enter the Convention, and he was glad to-day they took his advice. One could not disconnect an incident such as the calling of this Convention after years of bitter domestic strife with the events which had taken place, and of which the death of Major Redmond was one. The Prime Minister had stated that Major Redmond fell fighting side by side with Ulstermen, and that he was taken away and cared for in an Ulster ambulance by Ulstermen. He could not help recalling the fact that the first member of that House who made the supreme sacrifice was an Ulsterman. It was not necessary to dwell upon these facts. They were eloquent.

After all, if in the trenches they could fight side by side for the common cause of liberty, certainly, so far as he was concerned, and as he said in Belfast on Friday, he hoped in his own time to see some solution of the long-continued Irish question which would meet the ideals of liberty of all parties in Ireland. (Hear, hear.)

In the grave crisis which confronted them, and in the loss of members of that House, there was, he thought, a great deal of food for reflection, and we could not but think "what shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue."

Mr. WARDLE, speaking on behalf of the Labour Party, associated himself with the SIR EDWARD CARSON.

Mr. WARDLE, speaking on behalf of the Labour Party, associated himself with the tribute paid to the qualities of the lata Major Redmond. He said that the object of the amendment was to secure to rural areas larger representation than was proposed to be given them under the bill. He was quite content to leave the matter to the discretion of the Commissioners.

Mr. GEORGE LAMBERT seconded the amendment.

Sir GEORGE YOUNGER, on behalf of the Scottish rural constituencies; objected to the rigid instructions that had been given to the Commissioners.

Mr. O'Hara, as a fellow-countyman of Major Redmond, said he desired most heartily to join in the vote of sympathy with the widow and relatives of the late Major Redmond.

Mr. Gately, Alderman W. McCarthy, Sir Joseph Downes, Alderman W. McCarthy, Fir Joseph Downes, Alderman Dinnage, Mr. Beattie, Mr. Reigh, Mr. J. S. Kelly, and Mr. P. T. Daly supported the motion, and it was passed unanimously.

MAJOR REDMOND AND THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

TRIBUTE BY THE O'MAHONY.

Speaking at a meeting of the Strength of Britain and Ireland Movement, to advocate prohibition during the war and demobilisation.

The O'Mahony, D.L., who presided, said it was in no sense a political meeting, neither was it a temperance meeting in the ordinary sense of the word. But he knew many of those present were earnest advocates of temperance, and he should fike to say a few words regarding the heavy blow that had fallen on all advocates of temperance in Ireland, and that was the loss of his life-long friend, William Redmond. (Hear, hear.) He had been an intimate friend of his for thirty years, and during all that time he had never heard a cross word pass his lips. He could not recall in all those thirty years one single unpleasant incident to mar their friendship, though he could recall many pleasant nones, never to be forgotten. Truly it might be said that William Redmond lived his life unselfishly and for Ireland—aye, and for Ireland he laid down his life on the battlefield. (Loud applause.) He had shown them, how absolutely in earnest he was in his belief that this was Ireland's war. (Applause.) He did his utmost to win the war by his action and, above all, by his example. (Applause.)

PEMBROKE COUNCIL'S REGRET. PEMBROKE COUNCIL'S REGRET.

Mr. Bernard Harkin O'Reilly, Vice-Chairman of Pembroke Urban District Council, who presided over the monthly meeting of that body last afternoon, at the commencement spoke of the death of Major William Redmond, leading a section of the 16th Division. As one who had known Major Redmond in civil life, he said he had never met a more courteous or accomplished gentleman. He would, therefore, like the Council's permission to propose a resolution of sym. Mr. WARDLE, speaking on behalf of the Labour Party, associated himself with the tribute paid to the qualities of the late Major Redmond. Those who had heard his last appeal to the House would hope that the appeal in the House would hope that the appeal in the House would hope that the appeal in the House would hope that the appeal might result in a complete settlement of a difficulty which had baffled us for generations, but which, if settled, would make the British Empire the most complete exponent of liberty the world had even seen.

MR. GINNELL.

Mr. GINNELL said that a number of men who had risked their lives for Ireland were shot a little more than a year ago, after having laid down their arms and having been made prisoners of war. Others, who escaped execution, were to-day in chains, while that House professed to desire the fruition of the Cause for which they were in chains, while that House professed to desire the fruition of the Cause would facilitate the day when such relations between the two countries, would have ceased to exist. He said that it would not. The Prime Minister had summoned what he called an Irish Convention, an assembly of 100 persons, most of whom could not get themselves elected by any body of people in Ireland to-day.

Mr. RONALD MONEILL—On a point of order, what is the question before the House?

The SPEAKER—There is no question. It was understand the hon. member was rising to pay a tribute to memory of Major Redmond. Mr. GINNELL—I rose for precisely the same purpose as the Prime Minister. The Prime Minister, and the members who followed him, at the case of the Irish Parliamentary Party, recognised leader of the Irish Parli

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Might I suggest that a picturesque and appropriate place of meeting for the proposed Irish Conference would be the House of Lords Chamber in the old Parliament House in College

Green?

The main portion of the old Parliament House is now used, for the official work of the Bank of Ireland, and the internal structure of what was the old House of Commons has long since been completely altered; but, subject to a few temporary changes, which could be effected in a few hours, the House of Lords Chamber is as it was in 1800, with its fine oak panels, the old tapestries, and the very same chairs as were then used by our legislators.

Lord Rosebery, in one of the most beautiful species that even he has ever made, alluded to the sentimental feeling Irishmen must have when their thoughts turn to the old building; but I cannot imagine anything that would more please the sentiments of Irishmen in America and the Colonies than the knowledge that Irishmen at home were meeting together in the old House to frame a constitution for their native land. This House of Lords Chamber is occasionally used for a meeting of the Governors of the Bank, but I imagine that, if there was a general desire to have it for the purpose suggested, the Governors would allow it to be so used.—Yours, etc.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Six,—The National Teachers' Executive recently put forward as their demand the following scale of salaries, which has already been published in the Press:—Initial salary of £100 for all teachers—principal and assistant—rising by annual increments of £5 to a maximum of £200; principal teachers to receive in addition special grants based on the attendance at their schools in accordance with the following scale:—Principals of schools with an average under 30 to receive £10 per annum.

5s. for each pupil in average attendance between 100 and 200.

2s. 6d. for each pupil in average attendance between 200 and 300.

"IRISH-SPEAKING DISTRICTS."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sue,—I thank "Honest Man" for his interesting letter. May I give a case in point? The Commissioners of National Education have quite lately withdrawn the grant from a country school in the south for the simple reason that the teacher, who is a young man of very decided ability, will not quality to teach Irish in a district which is not an Irish-speaking district. One of their inspectors reported that it is an Irish-speaking district. The manager in answer had a census taken to show that there was no foundation for such a report, and challenged the had a census taken to show that there was no foundation for such a report, and challenged the inspector's report, which the Commissioners refused to disclose. Quite recently the school was inspected, and nothing could be more satisfactory than the report on the efficiency of the school, and the capable and up-to-date methods of the teachef; yet the Commissioners have withdrawn the grant and the school has been closed.—Yours, etc.,

FISHING IN RATHMINES RESERVOIR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As a frequenter of the Rathmines Reservoir for the purpose of fishing, especially in the evenings—which, in this time of year, is about the only part of the day when the fish will take—I was much surprised to find that a notice has recently been posted up in the carctaker's lodge to the effect that fishing must cease at nine-o'clock p.m., "notwithstanding any rule to the contrary." Previously it was one hour after sun-down. The dayinght saving extension has been a great boon to those who are in offices all the week, and has enabled many to enjoy an evening's fishing to the extent of the Dublin, June 11th, 1917.

RUSSIAN EXCHANGE SENSATION.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, MONDAY.

There was a moderate accumulation of orders over the extended week-end, and the Stock Exchange re-opened steadily with a confident undertone. The war news was reassuring, but, while the Russian situation was again regarded hopefully, another sensationally adverse movement in the Russian Exchange was disturbing, and prevented any improvement in Russian Securities. This development was specially disappointing, as, owing to the issuance of a further line of Russian credit bills here prior to the week-end, after a long interval of suspension of these emissions, it was hoped that the Exchange market would take a turn for the better. Home gilt-edged issues were firm, but without marked forward tendency. There was a fair number of transactions among Indian Government Securities, but quotations did not vary. The Irish Land Loan moved between 547s and 54s. The Colonial list was quiet.

HOME RAILS STRONGER. HOME RAILS STRONGER.

Support, while net heavy, in the Home Railway market was sufficient to keep most of the leading Stocks on the firm side throughout the session. Passenger Stocks were quite colourless, and Underground Electric Sixes shaded off ½ to 84 after their recent good advance. There was some scattered realising in the Scotch group from the North.

In the American market there was hardly anything doing on local account to test values, but the latter were often slightly higher on adjustment to parity. On balance Denver Common at 10½ and Southern Common at 30 were each ½ higher. Steel Common was quite nominal, and was, therefore, unaffected by the monthly statement of unfilled orders. CANADIANS AND MEXICANS GOOD.

Canadian Pacifics continued their advance to 177. Grand Trunk, Stocks were unsteady, but the 5rd Pref. was, ½ up on balance at 242. The weekly traffic showed an increase of £46,460. Mexican Railway Junior Stocks rose ½ to 1, and the 1st Prof. jumped 2½ to 52. There were numerous gains of a point among Argentine Rails, and Oontral Argentines added 1½ at 60½. The Brazilizan Railway group was also firm.

RUSSIAN BONDS UNCHANGED.
In the Foreign market Allied Bonds were spottily good. Russian Securities were no lower to quote, despite the further sharply unfavourable movement in the Exchange. French Fives made a good start, but after being brighter they concluded ½ lower at 80%. Spanish Fours were marked up another point to 98, the Ministerial crisis at Madrid having no adverse influence. The annual general meeting of Lipton, Limited, was held at Salisbury House yesterday (Monday, 11th June), Sir Thomas Lipton, Mr. C. Williamson Milne, the deputy chairman, dealt with the details of the accounts, and explained that, deepite unprecedented difficulties in trading, owing to war conditions, which had to be overcome during the past year, the profit of $258,550 represented the highest figures recorded in the history of the company. He further explained that, in view of the steady and progressive increase in its trade, the company were fortunate in holding a larger stock than usual; also that the stock-in-trade had been well bought, and was worth a great deal more to-day than the cost price at which it had been taken into the accounts.

Sir Thomas Lipton then explained that the increased earnings were the result of a very large increase in the turnover which had followed the company's policy of selling its goods at low prices. There had been no speculation, and the profits had been made entirely from the ordinary business of the company on the success achieved by Mr. H. L. Peters and Mr. J. Frank Gregory, the managing directors, and added that the board had by no means exhausted their programme of improvements.

Sir Thomas stated that the lady assistatis who had joined the Colours were proving most satisfactory. It had taken time to train them, but, now they had been thoroughly study, he regarded their work as very successful.

The results from the Colours were proving most satisfactory, and the Indian and Eastern business had been well bought and server of the company of the company of the server of the control of the company of the server of the company of the company of the server of the
